Residents Win Spirit Award at Senior Games 2001

Twenty-seven Landis Homes residents participated in 19 events at the Lancaster County Senior Games held at various locations throughout the week of June 4-8, 2001. They participated in activities, including home-run derby, checkers, walking, bocce, shuffleboard, basketball and pinochle.

Cheers, noisemakers and pats on the back were shared throughout the week, not just for the Landis Homes participants but for others as well. This was part of the reason Landis Homes as a team received one of the highest honors of the week, the Spirit Award. This award is given to the group that shows the most spirit, enthusiasm and good sportsmanship. From the parade at the opening ceremonies on Monday to the closing celebration on Friday, the Landis Homes team demonstrated how competing and having fun could co-exist, with appreciating the abilities and spirit of everyone involved.

“Many of the residents enjoyed themselves so much they are already talking about next year and their preparations for the 2002 Games,” said Landis Homes Fitness Coordinator Melanie Mascarenas.

“What it’s all about is having a good time,” said Fred Honaman, who participated in eight events and came home with a second place ribbon for the one-mile walk. “Winning is fun, but just participating in the games makes everyone a winner.”

A Special Touch

Those of us who have been involved at Landis Homes over the last number of years are aware of the reputation we have for providing excellent care and services. Our mission is “to provide quality programs for the enrichment of senior adults in an environment of Christ-like love.” We like to tell residents, visitors and families how staff members go beyond a paycheck to offer true caring and compassion to persons on our campus. This has often been most obvious in areas where residents receive nursing care.

Recently, this truth touched my personal life in an unexpected way. My wife’s aunt, who had lived at Landis Homes for about 16 years, died. She was a close aunt. In fact she had been a twin to my wife’s father, who had died 31 years ago at the age of 67. When she first moved to Landis Homes she lived in one of the cottages and later moved into an apartment. In recent years as she needed more care and support she occupied rooms in both Cedar and Elmwood in the healthcare center.

In May at her funeral service in East Bethany, her brother, who had been her faithful visitor, shared a story. He relayed how he visited her in Elmwood those last days of her life, and how she was not able to respond to his visits because of her dementia. In fact, he observed her body was usually drawn up in a frail clump in the middle of her bed. He was not certain she even recognized him and there was no response to his attempts to communi- cate with her.

He told of one particular day he had come to sit in the chair beside her bed. He said he watched as one of the nursing assistants came in to reposition his sister. The assistant warmly put her arms around the frail body of his sister, smoothed her hair and spoke kindly to her. His sister mumbled something in obvious response to the touch of this wonderfully caring staff person. In sincere appreciation for the excellent care he witnessed that day, he said he was reminded of the hymn “He Touched Me,” a reference to the touch of Jesus.

I am so pleased to be associated with persons like the one in this story who cared for our aunt. I know from other experiences that similar stories are happening many times over on our campus. It is an inspiration and a calling to me and to all of us in attempting to be the best we can be, as well as the most loving in all we do.

Thanks to all of the staff persons for the excellent care provided to our residents.

New Bus Dedicated

“What began over a year ago, we see the fruits of today,” said Landis Homes Vice President of Resources Larry Zook at the dedication service for the new bus, which had just arrived. Zook went on to thank those residents and staff who formed a search committee in the spring of 2000 to find a replacement for the 13-year old former bus. The new 2001 model, 28-passenger bus made by Krystal Koach will be used almost daily by some of residents for trips to stores, concerts, sightseeing excursions or to volunteer at locations off campus. Zook also thanked the Landis Homes Auxiliary for contributing funds for the purchase.

Landis Homes Auxiliary President Janet Horst in handing over the keys of the new bus said, the auxiliary “is excited and pleased to have been a part of providing funds for the purchase of this bus.” The auxiliary, which hosts a chicken barbecue meal every fall at Landis Homes, raised about half the funds. Horst continued by addressing the residents present, “We hope that in the years to come many of you, who have opportunity to use the services of this bus, will find it a blessing to you.”

Resident and volunteer bus driver Paul Brubaker who accepted the keys on behalf of Landis Homes, expressed appreciation for a safer and more comfortable bus for the residents and the drivers alike.

The group that gathered for the dedication included residents, staff persons, auxiliary members and volunteers. To close the service they read together a Litany of Dedication, which ended with the lines, “Bless us as we travel the roads that lie ahead. Fill us with gratitude and keep us in the palm of your hand. Thanks be to God.”

Caring Kids Commence

Landis Homes community is blessed with the presence of more than twenty youthful volunteers this summer. Dubbed as “Caring Kids”, they are like a breath of fresh air as they make their way through the halls with Gabriel, our pet golden retriever. They manicure nails, plant flowers to beautify the landscape for residents, help transport folks to programs, assist in the swimming pool as well as many other helpful tasks.

Volunteer services staff are thankful for the willingness of these young people to share their summer with our residents.
Life Stories Class to Begin

A class on life stories, photographs and memoir books will begin on Thursday, September 6. Joanne Hess Siegrist, the visionary who began these classes in 1996, will begin her sixth year as coordinating instructor. Since that time, more than 150 persons have participated in the class to collect, organize, document, design and sometimes publish memoirs.

Past participants have included primary school children and their young parents, middle-aged folks who organized their grandparent’s memoirs and elderly folks with 75-85 years worth of boxed memoirs to be placed in their own personal life storybooks.

In January, 2001, class participants enjoyed a premier showing of a newly published memoir titled “Footprints on the Sands of Time.” Grace Herr Graybill, the author, returned to Landis Homes to give thanks to the group who helped to lay foundational skills towards this published project. In 1996 Grace regularly attended the first series of classes at Landis Homes.

One thing led to another, and because Grace’s family so much appreciated her efforts, she enrolled with Lancaster County Life Story Writers of Willow Street, PA. Month-by-month Grace wrote more and more memoir stories. By Christmas 2000, Grace experienced a dream come true as she had printed fifty copies of her memoir book. A month later she ordered thirty more copies. Grace became one of several class participants who have published their memoirs. While published works are not the primary goal of the class, it certainly is a wonderful option.

This monthly class will run from September 2001 through May 2002. The classes will meet from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. on the first Thursday of each month. While the class is a series of nine different sessions, participants do not need to attend all nine. A distinctly different, stand-alone presentation will be offered each month. Participants can pick and choose themes according to their needs and interests. The initial session to be held in West Bethany Chapel is open to the general public with persons welcome to simply come and observe.

Persons desiring more information or to register for the class may phone Joanne Hess Siegrist at 636-6429, or Janice Hess, 569-3271, at Landis Homes. This series, sponsored by Landis Homes, is offered free of charge. Residents and nonresidents, men and women of all ages, all are welcome. A variety of backgrounds and perspective will bring energizing options to the class.

Golf Tournament Raises Support

We are pleased to announce the 10th Annual Golf Tournament held on June 1, 2001 at Foxchase Golf Club raised over $20,000 for Adult Day Services at Landis Homes.

We want to thank the following volunteer golf committee members: Glenn Weaver, Chair; Bonnie Kaufman (Bank of Lancaster County), Bill Forrey (Wohlsen Construction), Greg Henning (Morrison Senior Dining Services), Luke Shank (Landis Homes), Bill Mullineaux (Horst Construction), Doug Martin (Edgewood Printing), Donald Hess (Gibbel, Kraybill & Hess) Linda Garbozi (Utilities Employees Credit Union). The following staff: Faith Hoover, Linford Good, Jane Pfautz and Joanne Ramsbottom. We appreciate very much all their hard work in reaching our goal.

We say thank you to the 270 golfers that turned out on a rainy cool Friday. In addition, we thank the sponsors including the patron sponsors, advertising sponsors, hole sponsors and our Gold and Silver Sponsors.

Gold Sponsor is once again Horst Construction. Our Silver sponsors included: Bank of Lancaster County, Blue Ball National Bank, HealthGuard, Morrison Senior Dining Services, Reese, Lower, Patrick and Scott, and Stoudt Advisors.

Hundreds Attend Farm Day

What event could bring together residents, children, young animals, “farm show” food, exhibits, music and much more? A Spring Farm Day!

Despite occasional sprinkles, May 5 turned out to be an ideal day to celebrate farm life outdoors by the pavilion. It was mostly sunny, and just warm enough to be comfortable. Residents from across the retirement community campus, along with many visitors, family members, friends and staff, came out to enjoy a baked potato, soft ice cream, tractor and 4-H displays, music, square dancing, wagon rides and craft demonstrations. A large group of children from staff and resident families participated in a tug of war, potato sack race, rubber chicken toss and other children’s games.

Musical groups included a guitarist, an accordion duet and a blue grass band. A trained square dancing group and their caller Richard Hines entertained spectators. Amateurs in the audience were allowed to join the group on some of the final numbers. Four-H displays included knitting, felt making, chocolate candy making and photography. Residents demonstrated rug making, woodworking and making butter.

The day, which was planned for fun and fellowship rather than as a fundraiser, surprised organizers by realizing a profit of over $700 from the variety of foods sold. Activities Director Tina Mast Burnett who coordinated the event said, “We were amazed to realize at the end of the day that in addition to 178 funnel cakes and 185 baked potatoes we had also sold 384 ice cream cones!” The proceeds will go to support healthcare residents with financial needs through the Caring Fund.

It was estimated, from the food sales and door prize entries that close to 500 people came out to enjoy the day. Burnett said, “We had volunteers from everywhere—residents, staff, church groups and resident family members.”

Resident Leo Weaver said, “The thing that impressed me the most from the day, was the number of residents present with wheelchairs and motorized scooters. It was a grand day and I believe everyone enjoyed themselves.”

Evelyn Becker, Eunice Hess and Aaron Brubaker demonstrate buttermaking and serve their product on homemade bread.

Student Artwork Selected

Landis Homes recently announced the Art Student Award winner for 2001. Each year Landis Homes selects a piece of artwork from the Lancaster Mennonite High School Spring Fine Arts Festival to become part of a permanent collection on the retirement community campus. This year a jury of four, representing Landis Homes residents and board, and the Lancaster Mennonite art department, selected a piece by Joshua Hunt, a 2001 graduate of the high school.

The subject of the hand-painted photograph called “Loyalsock” began as a black and white photograph. The image reflects the scene of a stream running past a tree, with an intricately exposed root system. Hunt spent hours hand-coloring the photograph in subtle shades of greens, golds and blues. In return for the artwork, Landis Homes made contributions to the Lancaster Mennonite art department and to further the student’s education.

Hunt, of Lancaster will be attending Idaho State University in the fall as a pre-med student. Hunt’s high school photography teacher Paul Brubaker said, “Joshua approaches his hand-colored photography with precision and hard work. The result is stunning.”

Senior Fitness Award

Jim LeVan received the Senior Fitness Award for the 80+ category, presented at the Ephrata Recreation Center during the Senior Expo in May. Jim, a resident of Landis Homes, was selected because he swims twice a week, walks regularly, works out on weight equipment and teaches a weekly stretching class to help other seniors get back in shape. Jim, along with three other award winners for the 60+, 70+ and 90+ categories, was presented with a plaque and a National Senior Fitness t-shirt. Jim said, “It is important to keep moving, to keep muscles strong, which will also keep bones strong.”

Are Gift Annuities for You?

Does reflecting on recent market volatility cause you to wonder why stocks are called “securities”? Are you looking for a source of guaranteed income for life? Would you like to be free of managing funds that you intend to eventually give away? If so, a gift annuity may work well for you.

A gift annuity is a life income agreement funded through a non-refundable gift ($1,000 or more) of cash, stock, mutual fund shares, real estate or other assets. In return for the gift, you receive the security of guaranteed income for life. Annuity payments can be made to you, shared with your spouse, or designated to someone else. Fixed annuity rates are determined by your age when the gift is given, and by the age at which you want annuity payments to begin.

Many Landis Homes’ donors find gift annuities to be effective in overall financial planning. While increasing income, they benefit from a number of tax advantages. An immediate charitable deduction can be carried forward for up to five years and, if appreciated securities are used, capital gains tax can be avoided or deferred. In addition, a portion of the annuity income is tax-free.

Through gift annuities, donors can make a significant gift while providing for personal income needs and astute tax planning. For more information or to receive a confidential, personal illustration of a charitable gift annuity (including the income and tax benefits of your potential gift), contact the Development Office at (717) 509-5490.
