A group of volunteers from Landis Homes received statewide recognition for their service to the residents of the retirement community. The group that formed in April 2006 called Star Comforters received the PANPHA award as Volunteer Group of the Year for 2007.

The idea for the service arose at the suggestion of CNA Deb Boyer who wanted to do more with residents in her care. The Star Comforter service is made up of resident and staff volunteers, who were recruited and received training from the Hospice of Lancaster County to sit with persons who are dying. The volunteers use one of two carts assembled with items such as music, lotion and reading materials to be used at this sacred time in a person’s life journey.

The service is available throughout the campus for persons in healthcare, assisted living, suites, apartments and cottages. The healthcare staff members on duty provide any needed nursing care.

According to the PANPHA Distinguished Service Award booklet, “the Landis Homes Star Comforters program, consisting of resident and staff volunteers specially screened and trained to serve, affords terminally ill residents a calming and supportive presence in their transition from life to death. Volunteers serve as a companion and honor the wishes of the dying resident.”

The awards were presented in late June at the PANPHA Annual Conference in Hershey, Pennsylvania. PANPHA, an Association of Pennsylvania Nonprofit Senior Services, represents over 320 nonprofit providers of Landis Homes is a passionate community! I believe this passion is expressed in a number of special ways:

- Passion for sustaining the strong spiritual and Christ-like nature of the current community, as well as building and enhancing the community in new ways as Linford Good described in the Spring 2007 issue of Horizons. A map showing this new residential living expansion, including the currently projected six hybrid homes providing 12 homes in each building along with enclosed parking on the ground floor, is posted on the Landis Homes website: www.landishomes.org.

- Passion for serving one another, which is expressed in one of our guiding values, teamwork. This value is experienced throughout the community as residents and staff persons pray for each other. It is also seen in the many residents and persons from the broader Lancaster community who give over 50,000 hours of volunteer time within Landis Homes each year. In addition, residents give more than 15,000 hours of volunteer service to organizations such as Mennonite Central Committee and others throughout the local community. The Star Comforters program and the golf tournament are two examples among many!

- Passion for learning, which is expressed in our active pursuit of person-centered and resident-directed care. This is a journey of learning new ways of working together, un-learning some former ways, and keeping our focus on our guiding values and our mission, which seeks to serve aging adults and their families by honoring and enriching lives in a community of Christ-like love.

- Passion to pursue new opportunities, which is expressed in our desire to meet the needs of persons who choose to live as long as possible in their current homes through the newly formed “Landis at Home” ministry launched earlier this year, as well as our desire to serve persons with varying levels of financial resources. The Landis Homes Board is strongly supportive of these initiatives, and we look forward to exploring and implementing new options for senior living in partnership with others who share this vision.

- Passion for strengthening our connections with the church and local congregations. These connections have been very strong since we were founded as a ministry of Eastern Mennonite Missions and Lancaster Mennonite Conference in the early 1960’s, and which continue to strengthen through our relationship as an agency of Lancaster Mennonite Conference and a conference-related ministry of Atlantic Coast Conference. Our hope is that future communications with all congregations of our residents may unleash new partnership opportunities as we seek to support the missional movement within the church.

Landis Homes offers a well-maintained campus located in a beautiful part of God’s creation, surrounded by farmland. I believe even this blessing pales in comparison with the beauty found in this passionate community of God’s people.

long-term care and housing services for 68,000 elderly residents across the state. Association voting members employ 50,000 people and involve over 150,000 volunteers, trustees, and auxiliary members. The Association is committed to helping its members provide quality care efficiently and effectively for the individuals and families they serve.

Nominating materials for the group included facts and dates as well as letters of recommendation.

“As a volunteer it has been a privilege to simply sit with dying residents. One man who could no longer speak communicated his awareness by patting my arm,” wrote one volunteer in her letter of recommendation.

Another wrote, she and her sister had signed up to be Star Comforters because of their experiences in the death of their mother. “We felt it was important to be with her, whether or not she could respond to our presence.”

Heritage Watchers Class to Begin 12th Year

The first session of a nine-part series called Heritage Watchers will be held on Thursday, September 6th at 1:00 p.m. in the West Bethany Chapel. The classes offer support and instruction for participants in collecting, organizing and preserving a variety of photographs and artifacts into attractive, safe and “user friendly” forms.

Class instructor Joanne Hess Siegrist is beginning her 12th year of leading these classes. A Lancaster County native, Siegrist has worked as a teacher, historian, author, promoter of family life, as well as a community and church worker. While Siegrist’s work is seen in a variety of recent books, she is best known for her classic, well treasured book published in 1855-1935 published by Good Books in 1996.

Classes, which meet the first Thursday of each month from September to May, offer a wide variety of project options. These include a personal life story, child’s life story, extended family story, church story and community story. These classes are open to all ages, both genders, retirement community residents and the general public. These classes are known for blending a wide variety of ages and personalities, such as when middle school children shared their stories with older adults.

Past participants came from Berks, Delaware, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon and York Counties. For more information contact Joanne Hess Siegrist at 717-656-6429 or jhs606@frontiernet.net, or Landis Homes Activities Coordinator, Janice Hess at 717-569-1271.

Student Photograph Selected

Landis Homes announced the Art Student Award winner for 2007 in May. A jury of five, representing Landis Homes residents and board, and the Lancaster Mennonite art department, selected a piece by senior Kristen Ciaccia. Each year Landis Homes selects a piece of artwork from the Lancaster Mennonite High School Spring Fine Arts Festival to become part of the permanent art collection on the retirement community campus.

Ciaccia, a 2007 graduate, is the daughter of Kathy and Ken Ciaccia of Honeybrook. In addition to her studies she was involved in the school art club and the National Honor Society. The subject of her black and white photo is an antiques shop in Lititz.

“It is a great honor to receive the Landis Homes Award for my photograph I call Nostalgia”, said Ciaccia. “I appreciate Landis Homes supporting the arts at Lancaster Mennonite High School.”

In return for the artwork, Landis Homes made contributions to the Lancaster Mennonite High art department and to further Ciaccia’s education. Her plan is to attend Shippensburg University in the fall to pursue her interest in science.

Linford Good in presenting the award to Ciaccia at the Lancaster Mennonite Awards assembly said, “Many people who live, work and visit will enjoy Kristen’s artwork displayed at Landis Homes.”

He continued, “Landis Homes values this opportunity to encourage young artists and to support the Art Department at Lancaster Mennonite School.”

Summer Photography Reception

An art reception featuring a Lancaster photographer will be held at Landis Homes on July 31. Keith Grebinger will show a variety of his most recent photographs, including photo collages, on the retirement community campus. His color photographs depict many Lancaster scenes, both rural and urban, as well as beaches, lighthouses and many with Penn State connections.

Grebinger, a Lancaster native, reflects in his work his travels, which have taken him to 10 countries and over 40 states. Grebinger is the owner of Grebinger Gallery in Neffsville, where he has a photography gallery and a custom framing business.

The opening reception, to which the public is welcome, will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 31, in the Harvest View lobby and galleries at Landis Homes, 1001 East Oregon Road, Lititz. The works will continue to be on display through October. For more information, call Landis Homes at 717-581-3935 or visit their web site at www.landishomes.org.
Many residents participated in the Senior Games events at Franklin and Marshall College held the week of June 4. They competed in events such as bocce, horseshoes, darts, walking, bowling, shuffleboard and table tennis. Win or lose, the team had a good time exercising together and meeting new people. Pictured is Catharine Talbot competing in bocce.

Over 2000 persons of all ages participated in the Spring Farm Day in June. Participants were treated to gospel music, square dancing, young animals of all types, a tractor display and parade, wagon and barrel train rides, great food and a pie auction. Proceeds from the day raised over $4000 for the Caring Fund. Pictured is a young visitor petting a newly hatched chick.

Our 16th annual Landis Homes Adult Day Services Golf Tournament was a great success, and best ever, with net proceeds in excess of $38,000.

We are pleased to express our appreciation to a group of residents who filled “goodie” bags for the golfers prior to the event, to each of the 284 golfers and the following sponsors:

  The Landis Homes Community was saddened by the recent passing of loyal supporter, Robert E. Martin.

  Robert, along with his sons, faithfully volunteered auction services to the Landis Homes community for the past eight years as part of the Fellowship Day activities. His enthusiasm and diligent efforts always helped to inspire spirited bidding on the part of many generous buyers, which in turn brought a great benefit to the Caring Fund.

  Employees, residents, and many friends of Landis Homes will greatly miss Robert. He was also generous in his support of other worthy causes in the wider community.

Landis Homes is a passionate community! I believe this passion is expressed in a number of special ways:

- Passion for sustaining the strong spiritual and Christ-like nature of the current community, as well as building and enhancing the community in new ways as Linford Good described in the Spring 2007 issue of Horizons. A map showing this new residential living expansion, including the currently projected six hybrid homes providing 12 homes in each building along with enclosed parking on the ground floor, is posted on the Landis Homes website www.landishomes.org.

The Star Comforters program and the golf tournament are two examples among many!

- Passion for learning, which is expressed in our active pursuit of person-centered and resident-directed care. This is a journey of learning new ways of working together, un-learning some former ways, and keeping our focus on our guiding values and our mission, which seeks to serve aging adults and their families by honoring and enriching lives in a community of Christ-like love.

- Passion to pursue new opportunities, which is expressed in our desire to meet the needs of persons who choose to live as long as possible in their current homes through the newly formed “Landis at Home” ministry launched earlier this year, as well as our desire to serve persons with varying levels of financial resources. The Landis Homes Board is strongly supportive of these initiatives, and we look forward to exploring and implementing new options for senior living in partnership with others who share this vision.

- Passion for strengthening our connections with the church and local congregations. These connections have been very strong since we were founded as a ministry of Eastern Mennonite Missions and Lancaster Mennonite Conference in the early 1960’s, and which continue to strengthen through our relationship as an agency of Lancaster Mennonite Conference and a conference-related ministry of Atlantic Coast Conference. Our hope is that future communications with all congregations of our residents may unleash new partnership opportunities as we seek to support the missional movement within the church.
