Longenecker Recognized on Silver Anniversary

Landis Homes recently celebrated the 25th anniversary of the employment of president Ed Longenecker, who began working in December of 1976. For the first year Ed served as assistant administrator to George Leaman, who had given leadership to Landis Homes since its inception in 1964. Today, at age 95, Leaman is a resident on campus.

Ed was born on a farm in Middletown, PA and grew up helping his parents Phares and Emma with the butchering of meats and the marketing of produce. Following his graduation from Lancaster Mennonite High he completed an undergraduate degree from Eastern Mennonite University in Harrisonburg, VA and later a masters in Social Work from Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond.

When Ed first began working, in addition to his role as the administrator, he also was the social worker, the admissions counselor and the maintenance supervisor. The number of residents then was just over 200 with a staff of over 100. Today, Landis Homes has over 660 residents and a work force of almost 400. In addition there are another 100 persons Landis Homes serves through two adult day services centers and an aquatics program.

Ed was honored on campus at a reception with residents and at the Landis Homes board and staff

A Commitment to Excellence

Looking Back on My 25 Years

One year after I began working at Landis Homes I faced one of my biggest challenges. When George Leaman, who had just retired as administrator, took off to Florida with his wife Grace, I wondered how it would go now that it fell on my lot to be in charge. Several days later the blizzard of 1978 hit with its full fury and before long the entire campus was snowed in. I immediately worried about staffing. Who would be here to care for those needing nursing care? I had a lot to learn.

Everyone rallied beyond my imagination going above and beyond the call of duty. Many worked double shifts, sleeping when they could catch a wink and willingly spelling each other for time off. Numerous staff came prepared to stay overnight. I did my share of snow shoveling, which later became a winter routine for an able-bodied administrator.

Such great team effort pulled us through and all had fun doing it. Food service staff made taffy in the evening for those who had energy left to pull! We watched with gratitude days later when the massive snowplow bulldozed its way past Landis Homes. I was so relieved and learned a very basic lesson. This job was all about teamwork. We worked together to do the best we could at fulfilling our mission.

While we have grown larger over these 25 years, the team concept is even more important. The community effort often goes beyond staff to include residents and volunteers. This is especially evident during special events such as the annual fellowship day with the barbecue and auction, the golf tournament and many auxiliary projects throughout the year.

I'm so impressed with how persons add an extra special touch in serving others.

I've witnessed this with laundry staff returning a lost item of clothing; with nursing staff caring for a resident's particular need, with food service noting a resident's special request, with maintenance repairing a water leak or housekeeping cleaning up an unwanted spill. The list goes on to the prayers of the chaplains, the listening ear of the social workers and to the added joy of an exceptional activity. I must include the fruitful efforts of the volunteer department, the stewardship of the finance and development staff, and finally the efforts of human resources and admissions staff to guide new personnel and residents to this great community.

In recent years, our management team has needed to expand and become more specialized. We now have multiple departments with directors and a leadership team of president and vice-presidents. I am grateful for each person's involvement. Board members, staff persons, volunteers and, of course, residents all contribute to make Landis Homes a wonderful community. While I still do occasionally grab a snow shovel, I am seldom needed. The walks are often cleared before I get to work!

International Fair Becomes a Worldwide Event

In mid-January the East Bethany Chapel chairs were replaced with tables that held artifacts, souvenirs, maps, photographs and sample foods from countries and continents around the world. The persons displaying were primarily Landis Homes residents most of whom had served as missionaries in the country whose culture they represented. There was porcelain and kimonos from Japan, a large elephants foot from Sudan and an antelope hide from Tanzania. Handcrafts and books of photography from most of the 17 countries represented were also available to view. Several students from the International House at Millersville University brought food, flags and other examples from their home countries to display.

Persons hosting tables as well as some staff persons were dressed in international clothing. There was a buffet table of sweet international foods like dates, rice pudding and cakes, as well as fresh fruits like mango and papaya. Staple foods for sampling included hummus and pita, salsa and chips and crusty bread with Nutello spread. Beverages included Swedish hot chocolate, jasmine tea and spiced chai.

In a matter of an hour persons both walking and in wheel chairs could literally “go around the world” by experiencing the sights, sounds, touches and tastes of places far away. “I really enjoyed it,” said one of the displayers. “It gave me a chance to connect with some fellow residents in a new way.”

Harold Housman talks with Esther Ebersole about his display of African artifacts and food samples.

An international student from Honduras talks with visitor, Rhoda Martin and fellow displayer Lois Eshleman.

NEW CONSTRUCTION TO REPLACE DOGWOOD HEALTHCARE

Construction of a new healthcare center to replace Dogwood is expected to begin in late May of this year. The two-story building will include rooms for twenty-six residents on each floor. Forty-eight residents will move from Dogwood Healthcare and four from Elmwood Healthcare.

Dogwood Healthcare was built in 1968 using a hospital design with semi-private rooms and long corridors. The new healthcare center is designed to be home-like rather than like a medical institution. A home-like setting contributes to a more comfortable and fulfilled life for persons experiencing healthcare stays.

Elmwood Healthcare, opened in 1973, lacks areas for dining, activities and staff. By converting two semi-private resident rooms to living area for residents and work area for staff, Elmwood can be transformed into an attractive and much improved healthcare setting.

Rehabilitation services, including physical, speech and occupational therapies, have become more important as hospital stays shorten. The current therapy area is poorly located in a basement with inadequate space. A new space for rehabilitation services will be located adjacent to the new healthcare center and the existing Elmwood Healthcare area.

Current laundry services are also poorly located in the lower level of an assisted living area without an elevator. Building plans provide for a new laundry located adjacent to the healthcare areas with elevator access.

Dogwood building is well constructed and will not be discarded. It will be renovated to meet several longstanding needs, including centralized administrative offices and dining for employees and visitors. Administrative offices are currently located in several buildings on the campus. Centralizing offices will promote improved communication and efficiency.

The total cost of this ambitious construction and renovation project is nearly $12,000,000. Of that amount it is projected at least $2,000,000 can be raised through the generous support of the many friends of Landis Homes. The balance of the funds will be borrowed and paid off through revenues from healthcare fees.

The compassionate care offered to healthcare residents in a Christian atmosphere will continue as a vital part of our continuing care retirement services. By providing a more home-like and comfortable setting, Landis Homes will be better able to make senior years some of the best years for persons receiving healthcare services.

BRUBAKER LEADS FUNDRAISING CAMPAIGN

J. Kenneth Brubaker, MD, has accepted the responsibility of leading a major capital campaign to raise funds for Landis Homes. Based on a professionally conducted fundraising planning study, the Board of Directors launched the campaign to provide a new Healthcare Center and renovate the current Dogwood building for administrative services.

Dr. Brubaker previously chaired the Landis Homes Board of Directors and continues to serve on the board. Educated at Goshen College and Hahnemann University, he currently practices geriatric medicine at Masonic Homes and serves as a preceptor to family practice residency students at Lancaster General Hospital. He is a co-founder of Norlanco Family Health Center.

As part of his responsibility as general chair, Dr Brubaker has brought together a strong steering committee to assist in raising funds. Heading the three public solicitation groups are: Esther L. Martin, of Stevens, chairing Pacesetter Gifts, Rozanne L. Zimmerman, of Akron, chairing Major Gifts and Frank E. Shirk, of Leola, chairing Constituency Gifts. The following persons chair the groups soliciting Leadership Gifts: Carlton L. Miller, board gifts, Don Good, management gifts, Sandy Smoker, staff gifts and Naomi I. Martin, of Akron, representing the Auxiliary.

Rounding out the steering committee are Paul M. Martin, awareness program chair, Mervin H. Nolt, auditor, and Luke R. Bomberger, collection committee chair.

Serving ex-officio is J. Glen Hostetler, chair of the board, Glenn H. Weaver, chair of the development committee, Ed Longenecker, president, Linford Good, vice president of planning and marketing and Cathy Yoder, director of development.

The steering committee will join Dr. Brubaker in asking board members, staff members, residents and their families, businesses, foundations and many other friends to give toward the campaign.

GrandPals meet with Hinkletown Students

In early January 50 Landis Homes residents each met with their "buddy," a fourth or fifth grader, from Hinkletown Mennonite School. This was the third meeting of the large group since the school year began. The theme of the meeting was heroes, which included several activities with the pairs of a student and a senior working together. Each student is currently writing a story about heroes with information they gathered from their Grandpal.

Throughout the year the students using land mail and email have been interviewing their Grandpals about events they experienced in their lives. In the fall the fifth graders and their pals created and knotted a feedsack quilt for the Hometowne Heritage Days in Bird-in-Hand. The completed quilt was brought to the January gathering for everyone to see. Pictured around the quilt are clockwise from left: Lydia Lefever, seated, Tina Weaver, Cora Shreiner, Elsie Gehman, Rachel Fisher, Christian Vincent, Virginia Weaver, Bob Bosley, Joshua Zimmerman, Tyler Eckman, Gabriel, Kasey Brown, and (in front) Kelsi Good.

Annual Staff Recognition for 2001

The annual employee banquet was held at Yoder's Restaurant in December to express appreciation to all employees for the service each provides to enhance the quality of life at Landis Homes. Almost 400 attendees shared in a delicious meal and time of fellowship. During the event, four board members, Dorothy Groff, Carlton Miller, Louise Stoltzfus and Glenn Weaver, were recognized for their service along with the 34 employees listed below. Ed Longenecker and Don Good told stories from Landis Homes past as they reflected on Ed's 25 years of service.

We are blessed to have many faithful and dedicated staff who are committed to serving in a manner that upholds our core values of compassion, excellence, integrity, stewardship, teamwork, creativity and joy. Each contributes in a unique way to help make Landis Homes a special place to live and work. Following are the staff, listed by years of service, who were given special recognition this year.
