PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The past year certainly has been an eventful year for the Landis Homes community as it celebrated its thirtieth anniversary and added many new residents to the Landis Homes family. As I read the historical review of Landis Homes by A. Grace Wenger I was impressed with the vision, commitment and ceaseless energy shared by the founders of Landis Homes. While it is important to take time out and appreciate one's history, it is also important to carry the vision, commitment and energy into the future.

There are many changes occurring in long-term care and in health care. For this reason it is important that both the board of directors and the administration continue to be proactive on all fronts to ensure excellent health care and security in a warm Christian environment.

This year I have experienced personal growth and have been challenged since accepting a leadership role for the board of directors. Landis Homes is fortunate to have a board of directors who have demonstrated wisdom in planning for the future of our retirement community.

The coming year will be filled with new opportunities and challenges. These will include working with managed health care in the geriatric community, preparing to provide subacute care for our residents, and providing home health care to allow "aging in place" until the need for a nursing care bed is apparent. In addition, the board is pursuing the development of a specialized unit for cognitively impaired residents. All of this calls for discarding our old paradigms. Landis Homes is blessed with committed employees who are providing leadership by defining the specific needs in each of these areas.

So it is with excitement and enthusiasm that I anticipate the coming year.

Sincerely,

REFLECTIONS FROM THE DESK OF THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

The overriding event this past year was the opening of the Harvest View apartment building. The diligent preparation and planning by staff was rewarded with a smoothly organized move-in over the first six months of 1995.

We are especially grateful to be able to assimilate approximately 180 new persons into the Landis Homes' family. I particularly note an active reaching out of existing residents to welcome new neighbors and friends. We compliment the staff of each department in meeting the challenge as we begin to provide the necessary support services. We are thankful to God for guidance through this process. The newly planted trees, shrubs and grass, as well as the smoothly resurfaced streets, serve as a healing balm to our spirits after months of torn-up streets with the accompanying mud, noise and dirt.

Even as we complete this project, we are involved in strategic long-range planning. With input from residents, staff, and board members we are assessing our current program and planning for the future. As you may be aware, we are involved in planning for a Special Care Unit to compliment our services in the health care program, as well as expanding the Personal Care capacity. This will provide a more appropriate setting for care and services to persons with Alzheimer's and related needs. In a rapidly changing health care environment, this planning presents a unique challenge.

While brick and mortar provide the setting, we recognize that quality in program and services is of utmost importance. Pray with us that we sense God's leading through this process. It is a joy to be involved in service to others in the program of Landis Homes.

NURSING CARE SERVICES EXPANDED

*I*n the past year Landis Homes Retirement Community has continued to grow. Growing things change...changing things challenge us. The challenge for the nursing staff in the past year has been to provide quality care to a rapidly increasing population of "residential" and "independent living" residents. Through a contract with VNA (Visiting Nurse Association) that service is now in place.

VNA nurse Gerryanne Cauler consults with Marty Bucher.

Independent residents are now able to receive increased medical assistance in their homes. Along with that extension of nursing and medical services VNA provides a daily wellness clinic and individualized consultation and teaching.

It's all part of the Landis Homes effort to live out its Health Care philosophy - protection of resident independence and dignity.

Further care is also planned to meet the unique needs of residents with Dementia/Alzheimer's. Staff education, re-programmed health care services and a new Special Care facility are all in various stages of planning. The current planning and design phase is crucial to the long term success of Special Care. It sounds like another challenge with an important pay-off in improved care.

Health - growth - change - challenge! It's all part of the health care scene at Landis Homes.

ART FUND BLOSSOMS

*T*he Landis Homes Art Fund began spontaneously at a meeting with representatives of residents, staff, board members, and the People's Place Gallery. It was a meeting to select local works of art to hang in Harvest View. The original vision was to host the creative gifts of the surrounding community rather than hang art work which just "blends" in with the color schemes of the building.

The group of persons at this first meeting was so enthused by the idea several pledged a donation to this fund on the spot. The hope was to provide a fund for acquiring art, perhaps one piece at a time, on an ongoing basis. The Landis Homes community would be enriched and it would also be an enrichment to the larger community. School groups and others can make use of this gathering of local works of art.

The result so far is a wide variety of paintings, prints, photographs, ceramic and fiber arts. It is stimulating to both the eyes and minds of those who live and visit. An Art Walk Guide has been developed to give some background and description of each work. Some of

of the artists are relatives and descendants of Landis Homes' residents.

Currently in process is a proposal for the gathering of future works of art through an agreement with Lancaster Mennonite High School. Each year Landis Homes would receive a judged student's art work and the high school would receive an Art Scholarship donation; a benefit for all concerned.

Another feature which has developed is the creation of two mini-galleries. They will house on a rotating basis several works on loan from local artists. The works will hang for six months and then be replaced by works of a new artist. With each new artist an opening reception will be held where the artist can talk with residents and other visitors.

What started as a spontaneous idea is blossoming into a concept which is an asset for both present and future generations.

LANDIS HOMES GOES ON THE AIR

Unity in family life begins with timely communications. The Landis Homes family has been blessed with access to West Bethany Chapel services and other planned community activities through a newly acquired closed circuit television system. Many are enthusiastic in their expressions of appreciation for a system that allows them to "visit" special events from the comfort of their homes.

Even daily happenings become family news. Birthdays, anniversaries, daily activities, and hospital stays are communicated routinely on closed circuit TV. As a result family affairs gain wider participation and support.

Carolyn Hoover administers the new communications network for Landis Homes. It is an important link in the day for many residents.

Technician Stu Landis enjoys operating the new camera equipment which broadcasts live programs throughout the community.

LANDIS HOMES' HISTORY DEDICATED

As Landis Homes made plans for celebrating its 30th anniversary the idea of a history book was proposed. Though it seemed more appropriate to consider such an undertaking at a 50- or 100- year milestone it was decided to go forward. The most compelling reason for pursuing the project was the availability of persons who were instrumental in the formation and early years of Landis Homes. These persons, including residents, board members and staff were invaluable in contributing facts, stories and old photographs to the work.

Grace Wenger presents George Leaman with the first copy of Landis Homes history "The First Thirty Years".

A. Grace Wenger, resident and then Landis Homes' board member, consented to research and write the history. She worked with a committee in gathering interviews and photographs. When her work was completed there was no question as to whom the book would be dedicated. George Leaman, who was the first administrator and a current resident was chosen. He has been a part of Landis Homes from day one and throughout its 30 years. The book titled The First Thirty Years, was presented by Grace to George at the 30th Anniversary Celebration on November 20, 1994.

THE AUXILIARY CONTRIBUTES TO A CELEBRATION

Paul Martin, Director of Facilities and Planning, asked Rozanne Zimmerman, President of Landis Homes Auxiliary, if the auxiliary would make a quilted wall hanging for the 30th Anniversary of the community. In April of 1994, the project began with the auxiliary holding working meetings. Jean Horst (Mrs. Marlin), designer of quilts was asked to lend her expertise. Following consultation with her it was decided to use the auxiliary logo on the wall hanging. The design includes a cross with hands inside a heart and the words Loving, Sharing, and Caring.

Rozanne Zimmerman presents plaque and quilt to Ed Longenecker.

The colors of the wall hanging are coordinated with the lobby colors at Harvest View's main entrance. Rebekah Landis, a resident of Landis Homes, coordinated the quilting by seven residents. Mary Myer did the applique, while Emma Sensenig did the embroidery. The quilt took seven weeks until October 27, 1994 to finish. The quilted wall hanging was presented to Executive Director Ed Longenecker on Sunday November 20, 1994, at the Thirtieth Anniversary Celebration in West Bethany Chapel. A plaque hangs on the wall to show it was donated by the Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary who believes: "Quilters create the heirlooms of tomorrow," wants to thank everyone who contributed their time and talents to complete this beautiful wall hanging. God bless you all!

BANKING ON CAMPUS

In response to a number of resident requests and following a careful review of several proposals, Landis Homes management entered into an agreement with Bank of Lancaster County in January 1995 to provide banking services to Landis Homes residents.

The Bank, eager to greet the new residents moving into Harvest View, opened a temporary location on January 17, 1995, one day after residents began moving in. On July 17th they moved into their permanent location in a newly renovated area of Building F. They are providing full service banking including the rental of safe deposit boxes.

Bank of Lancaster County's executive vice-president, Roger Moyer said he is pleased with the response to their programs. Banking activity has exceeded the bank's projections. The Bank representative Bonnie Kauffman serves the banking needs of a resident.

Landis Homes community is grateful for the professional and friendly service being provided by bank associates, Bonnie Kauffman and Mary Ellen Risser. We all look forward to a long and mutually beneficial relationship.

HARVEST VIEW RESIDENTS JOIN THE COMMUNITY

This is an adaptation of a report originally given by Marian Buckwalter at the June 14, 1995 semi-annual residents association meeting.

*W*e would like to take just a brief backward glance. . . .

In November 1992 after many months of deliberations in board meetings, staff committees, and meetings with architects and builders, we were ready to offer accommodation in this projected new facility which was then known as Building L!

The first person made a down payment and signed on for an apartment on February 6, 1993.

Harvest View completed.

In the succeeding months, through 1993 and 1994, my colleague Deb Laws-Landis and I spent many hours interviewing prospective residents, some who had been on the waiting list for many years and some who more recently had become aware of the possibility of retirement living at Landis Homes. Many residents were involved in that process, freely opening their apartments for tours and participating in meetings for prospective residents, where they shared their experiences of living at Landis Homes.

As of this report, 120 of the 125 apartments are occupied. In reflecting over the past six months in particular, we realize that we have many reasons for which to give thanks to our Heavenly Father.

- The building program coming to completion without major snags.
- Moving in could begin on January 16 as scheduled many months earlier.
- Favorable weather throughout the winter.
- The stories which many persons have shared of experiencing a special sense of God's leading as they have made the decision to move to Landis Homes.
- The physical strength and resilience which persons experienced as they worked through the scheduling and holding of sales, worked through all the paper work and logistics of moving in, dealt with all the emotions involved in downsizing, pulling up roots and putting them down again in a new setting.
- The tolerance of all the Landis Homes residents who lived with noise, dirt and inconvenience throughout the period of construction.
- Staff teamwork in attending to all the details of welcoming and orienting 170 new residents.

- Resident Council officers and other residents who made welcome visits to residents of Harvest View.
- Growth that has come and continues to come for all of us as we are asked to change some of our familiar patterns and ways of doing things in order to integrate this large group of new family members.

Harvest View residents gather at a social event.

There are many, many things of interest that could be shared about the persons who have moved into Harvest View.

- A current board member and a former board member have become residents. . .

Mervin Nolt has been a member and treasurer of the board since 1984.

Luke Bomberger was chairman of the Advisory Committee and what later became the Landis Homes Board from 1979 to 1987 and a member up to 1993.

- One person moved here from the house in which she was born 83 years ago. In contrast to that, one couple who moved here had 22 prior moves in their married life. He worked for a company who believed in transfers.
- The move was a long one for some and a short one for others. One couple moved here from Florida and another couple moved from less than a mile away.
- Almost all of the buildings at Landis Homes were constructed by two builders: the companies of Abram S. Horst, Inc. and Earl F. King, Inc. Both Abe Horst and Earl King are now residents in Harvest View.
- At least one of our residents is a pilot. He has recently taken aerial photos of our Landis Homes campus for us.
- We have two Paul L. Martins living in Harvest View and they join resident Paul Z. Martin and staff member Paul M. Martin to make four Paul Martins on campus. That will be an ongoing challenge for the mail sorters!
- John Hershey and Rohrer Hershey, with their spouses, joined four sisters already living on campus to make our first group of six siblings living here at one time. Family reunions should be easy for them to get to!
- Some persons have come with many connections in the community and some come with no connections, giving Landis Homes the opportunity to be their family.

Standing among her belongings, Marguerite Sauder is the first resident to move into Harvest View on January 16, 1995.

It is our prayer that the Landis Homes family of now nearly 700 residents and more than 200 staff persons will continue to live and work together in a spirit of Christian love and care for one another.

MORE THAN FINE FOOD

The Harvest View project provided some very exciting and rewarding opportunities in the west campus food service program. Landis Homes staff worked jointly with Culinary Service Network to address the dining demands of a growing West campus community. Early 1995 marked the completion of the newly remodeled main dining room and kitchen as well as the opening of the new Garden Room. It has been heartwarming to observe, through this long process, how well the resident and the hard working food service staff adjusted to these new surroundings.

A newly formed resident committee also contributed significantly to the smooth transition with many helpful suggestions.

The Garden Room with its soup and salad bar, becomes a popular eating place.

have become popular gathering places for residents to meet with friends and family while enjoying a good meal together.

The Food Service Department looks forward to another year of providing residents and their guests with an enjoyable dining experience.

Residents receive waitress service in the newly refurbished West main dining room.

The committee includes Mary Zimmerman, Elizabeth Hershey, Lillian Elliott, Grace M. Stauffer, Evelyn Martin, Miriam Shenk, Jean Chew, Lois Messner and Martha Zimmerman - the West kitchen supervisor.

Residents now have the choice of enjoying the waitress service in the beautiful main dining room or the self-service in the cheerful new Garden Room. It is exciting to observe how both dining rooms seem to

WE CELEBRATE OUR VOLUNTEERS

In late April 240 volunteers were invited to a recognition dinner and program at the Neffsville Mennonite Church Fellowship Hall. Centered on the theme "Volunteers are Ageless", skits done by staff and teen volunteers portrayed the work of volunteers throughout the history of Landis Homes.

During the 1994 calendar year, volunteers ranged in age from 15 to 101. The teens and those over 90 were given special recognition at the dinner. The person at each table who had served the most years received the centerpiece.

Volunteers serve in 12 departments throughout the campus. Already new residents in Harvest View are volunteering their services to meet the needs of a larger community. Landis Homes could not survive without the faithful service of our volunteers. Almost 38,000 hours were donated by volunteers in 1994. Listed below are those persons who contributed 25 hours or more during the past year. We thank each one.
